

Curling Club Have Enthusiastic Meet

President McLewis, Vice-President O. Stiles, Secretary W. J. Redmond Returned by Acclamation - Fees Remained Unchanged - Two Local Bonaparte Planned—Thirty Attend Meeting

The annual meeting of the Hassano Curling club was held in the court house on Friday night, November 3, with an enthusiastic attendance of 30 members. Such interest in curling points to a very successful season.

It was unanimously decided to again affiliate with the Royal Canadian Curling club. Following discussion, the meeting was in favor of keeping the fees the same as last year, viz. $10 and $5, the executive being authorized to interview the Rink Limited with the view of a reduction in fees if it is at all possible to operate on a lower revenue.

The starting time of games will be 8 o'clock and the rule governing this phase of the game will be rigidly enforced.

Rule 21 of the R.C.C.'s reads: "If any of the competing rinks are not ready to begin play at the hour named for the match, one end shall be counted as played for every 10 minutes' delay; and the opposing rink, if ready to play, shall count one point in the game for each such period of time it is kept waiting."

It was decided to have two home-plays, the same as last year, an open and a local mixed 'n'el.

The executive were authorized to rent rocks to members of the club for scheduled games only for the season.

CURLING NOTES

The skis are having considerable success in obtaining rinks and everything points to an even better season than last year.

It is possible, from the interest being displayed by the ladies, that a ladies' curling club may be formed. The movable dance floor in the Curling building, the property of the board of trade, has been removed and is being stored in preparation for the coming curling season.

Quiet Halloween

Thursday night, October 31, was the quietest Halloween ever celebrated in Hassano. This is mainly attributed to the worthy efforts of the high school and the donations of local business men in providing a free show at the Orpheum theatre and giving each child a bag of candy and nuts. The extreme cold weather prevented the usual large parade of hob-goblins, and the trouping of ghosts and disguised characters from door to door, though a few were in evidence.

There were no reports of vandalism, though a few of the more ambitious younger generation could not curb the tendency to apply a small quantity of soap on a few windows and hoist the old garbage can to the top of a pole.

The idea of keeping the children off the streets by providing an entertainment such as was given by the high school met with much approval by local merchants, and it is probable that it will be repeated on future Halloweens.

Crowfoot

CROWFOOT, Nov. 5.—The snowstorm last week caused most of the farmers and ranchers before they were ready for it and Sid Roubenour, Tom Mullen and Joe Roberge have been busy the past few days gathering cattle.

Ernest Martin of Spokane, Wash., is in this vicinity looking after his farming interests.

Floyd and Harold Nall returned home last Tuesday after spending the past few weeks at Red Deer.

Chas. Riley of the W.F. farm was a caller at the Roberge home last Wednesday.

The Meakepeace Bridge club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. Holter last Friday evening and are going to meet in the school Saturday evening. Dancing to follow the cards. Every body welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Nall and family spent Sunday visiting Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Campbell.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. A. Gray and N. E. Gray are the proud owners of new radios recently purchased.

Gordon Jones and George Gray spent a few days in Calgary last week.

BOARD OF TRADE

The regular meeting of the Board of Trade will not be held on Wednesday next, as Monday, the 11th, is Remembrance Day, is a national holiday.

The next meeting will be held on Wednesday the 20th, and no further meeting will take place until the 27th. Members, please note this change.

Public Meetings Discuss Canning Fact'y Proposals

In connection with the proposed establishment of a canning plant and cheese factory in the Eastern Irrigation district, meetings have been arranged at different centres in the district for the discussion and presentation of the proposals.

The introduction of such an industry is of importance to the district as a whole, and it is vital that these meetings be attended in if at all possible. Following is a list of the place, time of day and the date of the meetings:

Rainier, 3 p.m., November 12; Beaudry, 8 p.m., November 12; Millicent, 3 p.m., November 13; Patricia, 8 p.m., November 13; Duchesne, 8 p.m., November 13; Tully, 3 p.m., November 16; Brooks, 8 p.m., November 16; Hassano, 8 p.m., November 19; Rosemary, 3 p.m., November 20; Gem, 8 p.m., November 20.

A mass meeting of all the towns in the district will be held in Brooks on November 14.

GEM S.C. GROUP

A successful meeting of the Gem Social Credit group was held on Saturday, November 2, when plans were being for sponsoring an Armistice dance on November 22. The dance was originally slated for November 15, but this date conflicts with the Hassano, Fremont's dance, so it was decided to advance the dance one week. The group offer an invitation to everyone in the district, and assure a very good time will be had at the dance. Good orchestra, and good lunches. Hold the date open.

The group intends taking over the activities of the young people of Gem the coming winter, financially and otherwise, and forming a Young People's club. The funds derived from the dance on the 22nd will be used toward this purpose. W. C. Roberge, vice-president of the group is assuming charge of organizing the club, and the group will support him in every possible way.

Chancellor

CHANCELLOR, Nov. 4.—Mr. and Mrs. Papp and family, formerly from Saskatchewan, have moved to Chancellor, as Mr. Papp has a job with the C.P.R. railroad. They have two boys, John and George, going to school here.

On account of the stormy weather and bad roads, the Hallowe'en society dance and bean supper, which was to have taken place on Friday night, did not materialize. A new date will likely be decided upon when the W.I. group meet on Thursday at the home of Mrs. H. F. Penak.

The many friends of Mrs. E. H. Young will be sorry to hear that she is in a hospital at Calgary, and has had to undergo a minor operation. We all wish her a speedy recovery and a safe homecoming at an early date.

Monday night Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Penak, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Muir and Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Hooke, noticed to attend a Hallowe'en dinner party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rees Hugh.

A mile east of Standard the snow and storm became so dense that the car slipped in a ditch. It became necessary to leave it there, and walk the rest of the way. Next day, the Chancellor party had to come home on their own.

Another phase of the recent storm has made it impossible for the mail man to get through, and it has been a whole week since we have had any mail. On Saturday Mr. Paulsen received a phone call that the mail man was assisting in fighting a fire which threatened to burn the whole town of Kootenay.

Poppy Day

AN EDITORIAL

The symbolism of the Poppy, the sorrowful appropriateness of its blood-red bloom, takes a deeper significance with each succeeding year. The Great War is passing almost into legend; a generation is bequeathed the duty of carrying into the years that have yet to come the work and the ideals of those whom the Poppy commemorates.

Canada has adopted the Poppy as a symbol because of the 60,000 graves in France and Belgium in which lie the dead of the preceding generation, because of the 170,000 Canadians to whom the conflict brought disablement of one kind or another. The crosses in the cemeteries of Flanders are garlanded with Poppies—dolorous emblems of a nation's youth consumed in the "Wrath-red forge of War."

On Poppy Day this Dominion pauses in its normal activities to recall the sacrifices of its young men, to pay tribute to their heroism, their hardihood and the uncompromising fortitude with which they bore their privations and sufferings. At the same time, Canada strives to liquidate in some small measure, an obligation to those disabled men employed in the Veterans Workshops of the Country, whose only means of livelihood is the making of these simple emblems.

The wide ramifications of the great Canadian Legion, with its tens of thousands of workers on Poppy Day, take care of the distribution of these Poppies throughout Canada. There is thus ensured to their disabled comrades in these Veterans Shops a loyal performance of a sorrowful yet praiseworthy task.

All Canadians of every age and degree should wear a symbol on Poppy Day. For that is surely a day of re-consecration and of re-dedication to the work on hand of continuing the structure of civilization where the workers of a previous generation left off.

Bazaar & Dance Rosemary, 22nd

ROSEMARY, Nov. 7.—The ladies of Rosemary are again holding their big annual bazaar and dance on November 22. A good time and a pleasant one is assured. Come to Rosemary on the 22nd.

Roy Norton, who has been in the Hassano hospital for the past few weeks suffering from a crushed foot, is expected to be home in a few days. William Tauffe and Jose Adams shipped two carloads of cattle to Calgary on Saturday.

Mrs. D. Macdonald and family called at the R. Eastman home on Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Joan Norton and Mrs. Roy Norton, motored to Hassano Saturday evening to visit Roy Norton.

Don't forget the dance in Rosemary on November 8!

Duchess

DUCHESS, Nov. 4.—There were many children that were not able to go to school the past week on account of so much snow and the fact that it has drifted so badly.

There was not a very large crowd at the dance on Friday owing to the bad roads.

The bus has not been able to get back to Calgary since it ran from the city on the 28th. It was not able to get any further than Brooks.

There will be another dance in the town hall on the 5th. Mike Goodman's orchestra furnishes the music.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Muir and two children, of Medicine Hat, who have been visiting at the P. Miller home, returned to the Hat on Sunday.

Miss Marjorie Gahan spent the week-end with the Roberge girls and home to Johnson in Hassano.

Mr. Jerrick is visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Sisson, and family.

Miss Mae Hammon is putting on an entertainment at Duchesne Thursday evening, the 7th, when she impersonates 15 different characters in a "act play" entitled "Mary Jane's Fate."

Little Gordon Brown met with a very painful accident when he caught his hand in a headgate. He was taken to Hassano where Dr. Brown had to amputate a part of two of his fingers.

MRS. M.N. FOIEN PASSES AWAY SUDDENLY WED.

A resident of Duchess for many years, Mrs. M. N. Foien passed away suddenly on Wednesday, November 6, in the Hassano hospital following a two-day illness. Death was caused by heart failure.

Surviving are five small children, besides her husband, her mother, Mrs. Douglas and a brother, Charles. Funeral services will be conducted in Duchess at 2 o'clock on Saturday, November 9.

Deepest sympathies are extended to Mr. Foien and family from all their friends in Duchess and district.

32 Battalion Winter Reunion

Plans are being made for a meeting of the original members of the 32nd Battalion C.E.F. with the ultimate object of holding a reunion during the winter.

Any information regarding the matter may be had from J. Easton, 506 Hokin Ave., Morse Place, Man.

Flying Doctor's Plane Makes Many Flights

Though not making any of the highly touted "merry flights" that seem so common in the north country, the plane of Dr. E. G. Calbeck has been comparatively busy during the past week.

Answering hurried calls from patients, searching for missing men, operating a temporary passenger service and looking for lost sheep are all just routine work for "Buddy". The plane is at all times ready for a quick flight when roads are impassable and an urgent summons for the doctor is sent.

Last week's flights give a good example of the service rendered by the aeroplane in ordinary course of duties:

On Wednesday Dr. W. G. Anderson of Wardlaw was flown to his home from Hassano. On Thursday Pilot Sandgate started out with the former's son to Wardlaw, but was forced back by a blizzard northeast of here. This trip was completed that afternoon. Late Thursday afternoon Dr. Scott answered a hurried call via his plane to Marjorieville. During the weekend the plane was utilized in searching for about 300 head of sheep that had drifted from Hassano, small bands of which were located around the town of Marjorieville. Monday a passenger made a return trip to Idelwild.

During winter months when snow covers the ground, the plane is, of course, equipped with skis.

REMEMBRANCE DAY

All are requested to meet at the Masonic Community hall at 10:15 a.m. for the purpose of attending church services to be held in the Knox Presbyterian church on Monday morning, the 11th of November.

During the past few years, the Christmas holiday season has been observed quietly in Hassano; and it is with the idea of giving an opportunity to do a little something and celebrate the holidays in a fitting manner that this dance is being planned. In this way one can donate a small amount to the Hallowe'en fund at the same time receive value for money expended.

Watch for further announcements on the New Year's dance.

Plan Dance Here New Year's Eve

Last year a group of citizens sponsored a New Year's dance and held the entire proceeds to the local business committee. A sum of $40 was realized, and as this was considered a great success, plans are being made to hold a dance in Hassano on New Year's Eve, December 31.

During the past few years, the Christmas holiday season has been observed quietly in Hassano; and it is with the idea of giving an opportunity to do a little something and celebrate the holidays in a fitting manner that this dance is being planned. Recreation A Vital Necessity

Ever since some authority discovered and told the world that every man should have a hobby, the dictum has been reiterated at intervals by later authorities with varying degrees of emphasis and sometimes by those who are interested in promoting some form of amusement or recreation. Whether it be a hobby or not, the motive is the same, and the result is the same. It is first cousin and as well founded as that more popularly known saying: "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy."

While a hobby or recreation is a valuable adjunct to work for man at all periods of his march from the cradle to the grave, in at least two stages of his progress, in youth and in old age, it is an absolute essential if he is to achieve the goal of life happiness.

The word recreation itself gives a clue to the reason. Re-creation, the making over again of the individual as he seeks relaxation from the "trivial round and common task" means what it indicates.

Unless a man is content to be a dull clod, he must refresh and re-create himself by seeking recreation in some pastime which, for the time, will lift him above the cares and worries incident to earning his daily bread and providing for the needs of those dependent upon him. He needs some interest which will induce rest to aching limbs or brush away the cobwebs from the brain.

In youth his diverse interest may take the form of athletic, mechanical activity and with a minority, more some sedentary type of relaxation, but no matter what form it may take, it is essential to the development of a sound, robust citizenry, that youth should be allowed time for recreation. The lad in young manhood has a hobby is apt to become morbid and unhealthily introspective. Youth is normally a period of superabundant energy and this overflowing energy must be allowed to express itself in some form of healthy recreation, and it can be used as a step ladder to a life vocation, it is that much more to the good.

Many a youth has "found" himself in the pursuit of a hobby. History is full of stories of men who have made good in later life because they have been allowed to follow their bent and of many more who have done so despite overwhelming obstacles and discouragements. By all means encourage the young man to take up some interest, apart from his daily work and chores.

And if a hobby is essential to youth it is vital to old age. There is no more pitiful sight than the old man whose physical powers have waned and who has no interest in life or in living. Such a man is a burden to himself and an incubus to his associates. He is nearly defenceless and makes miserable those with whom he comes in daily contact.

But the old man who has built up an interest secondary to the life work which he pursued in his prime is spared these pains and penalties of advancing years. As he becomes physically enfeebled he is able to turn his hand and his mind to a pursuit which day grows in fascination, because it can be taken for granted, that the hobby which he has developed is something which he likes to do, and therefore, he can exert. Such a pursuit will go far towards prolonging life itself and will certainly give zest to the declining years. Gloom will give way to sunshine and contentment will displace misanthropy.

But it is too late for the aged to develop a hobby after they have reached the grey and yellow. The old adage, "You can't teach an old dog new tricks" is applicable to humanity. There may be exceptions but that is the rule. That is one of the reasons why, even during the crowded years of prime and middle life, recreation is not only advisable but essential. It is an insurance policy for a contented and interesting old age.

Moreover the man who diversifies his interests beyond his life's vocation, even during the period when life is at its best, is more likely to have an old age in which to further develop his hobby. It may well be something related to his, in which event the pursuit will yield additional interest and perhaps more tangible dividends in the task of making a living.

Chinese Dancers Are Willing To Help

Dancers are to do their bit in helping China get together a strong air force. This is a result of a request by the China Aviation League to the proprietors of Chinese dance halls in Shanghai for a charge of five cents on every dollar earned in their establishments to go towards a fund for the purchase of airplanes. The dance hall owners will pass the five cents charge on to their customers. The proposal has been accepted by 20 dance halls and others are expected to notify the Aviation League of the compliance before many dance-nights have passed.

First Bicycle In Bavaria

Built In 1864 It Is Made Entirely Of Wood

Bavaria's first bicycle, built by the famous German sports instructor, Johann Friedrich Treff, has been acquired by the Deutsches Museum at Munich. The bicycle is made entirely of wood, and was designed and built by Treff in 1864. Peasants, when they first saw him pedalling the wooden machine along the road around Munich, shouted "witch-dog!" and often threw stones and crossed themselves. Treff only managed to overcome Bavarian prejudice after he had built an indoor bicycling hall in Stuttgart to "introduce Germans to the bicycle."

Assistance Will Be Given

Alberta Government To Help Exhibitors At Winter Fairs
Alberta Government will once again assist grain exhibitors at the Toronto Royal Fair and Chicago International fair. For the Royal Fair, entry fee and shipping costs to Toronto will be paid on boys' and girls' club exhibits. Return shipping costs will not be paid.

At Chicago International Fair and Grain Show, where Alberta has made such an outstanding record in seed grain for the past 15 years, the government will pay shipping costs on approved exhibits. Prize money in the regular grain sections at Chicago won by Alberta exhibitors will be duplicated by the provincial government. In the case of one or more first prizes or championships being taken, a special bonus of $50 will be granted, which will be increased to $100 in the case of championships in wheat, corn or barley. The provincial Seedcrop branch will as far as possible supervise the arrangements for the exhibits.

Still In The Lead

No Book So Widely Read As The Bible

The Bible of the present generation is the outcome of centuries of research and patient effort. It contains 66 books in one, covering history, psalms, prophecy, romance, law, biography, and letters delivered as correspondence. Men like King George read a part of the Bible daily for guidance and encouragement in their tasks; Sun Yat Sen, Chinese founder of Confucius Mahatma Gandhi, Hitler and Kewaga of Japan, poured over it and were moved to their destinies by its teaching. It is read in palaces and in the most remote of the world's villages. Each year the Bible societies of the world send out 25,000,000 copies in hundreds of languages. In spite of supposed religious indifference it is the most read book in the world.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Army Troopers Prefer Jail To Having Hair Cut

Troopers of the Czechoslovakian army sent to Berlin recently to escape the great peril of having their hair cut. At about 40 of the men stationed at Olomouc flatly refused to obey their commanding officer when he ordered them to report to the barbers for a trimming. They clung to their determination not to have their hair cut and were sent to cells. Their reason, they said, was that they were about to be discharged from the army and would have to look for work. Everyone knows that a smart appearance counts for a lot in getting a job, they pleaded, but who can look really smart with one's hair cut like a convict's?

British Eggs Despatched By Air Hatched In Australia

An experiment in sending British eggs by air mail to Australia, to be hatched by Australian hens has proved a great success, as two sturdy Rhode Island chicks hitherto unknown in Australia prove. Mr. F. P. "Bones" Newman, secretary of the Poultry Club of New South Wales, received two settings of Rhode Island Red eggs by air mail. They were delivered fifteen days earlier by Lord Greenway from his farm at Stanbridge Earls, Romney (Hampshire). The two chicks hatched out 32 days after receipt.

SMARTNESS AND MODE HEAVY FIGURES IS GRAPE PATTERNS FOR TODAY—EXCEEDINGLY SIMPLE TO MAKE

By Edna Worth
Much enthusiasm is shown the lovely new dull silks that look like wool, that make this simple smart dress. And incidentally, they are a boon to heavier figures.

The metal threaded crepe of the surplus velvet and jabot frill, add to the Renaissance elegance of this slimming dress of black wool-like silk.

It's a very helpful style for women of heavier build.
Style No. 724 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust. Size 36 requires 3 1/2 yards of 39-inch material with 3/4 yard of 39-inch contrasting.

Mounted Section Necessary

Separate Division Of R.C.M.P. Is Being Considered

The old order changed.

The Mounted Police are considering forming a mounted section in the force, according to the annual report released at Regina headquarters.

"If present plans are advanced to completion," the report states, "the subjects of equitation, mounted drill and stable management will be undertaken by those assigned to the mounted section only."

The report states difficulty is experienced in completing the training of some recruits within the prescribed period of six months when intensive training in equitation is included in the syllabus.

So some recruits may be assigned to mounted duty only, while others will take instruction in more modern and rapid means of travel.

Despite reports that the force was slowly but surely going away with horses, Major-General Sir James H. Macbride, commissioner, states in the report that "there is no intention whatever of dispensing altogether with the mounted man. A well trained mount of sufficient number is invaluable to any force which may have to deal with unruly crowds."

At the present time, the report states, the force throughout the Dominion has 258 saddle horses and 10 team horses, and of these, 88 saddle horses and 13 team horses are located in Saskatchewan.

Other means of land transport owned by the Mounted Police are 411 motor cars, 34 motorcycles, 10 motor trucks, three railway gas cars and 412 sleigh dogs.

Of that number, there are 96 motor cars, 34 motorcycles and 28 dogs stationed in Saskatchewan.

The force also operates 11 cruisers and eight patrol boats in preventive service on the eastern and western coasts.

Idea For Poultrymen

Chickens May Be Tattooed With Brand Of Owner

Chickens, tattooed on the wing, may soon become the present-day counterparts of the brand-marked cattle and horses of the old west, and for the same reason—to foil thieves. A system of identification, endorsed by the Northeastern Poultry Producers' Association, is based on needle-punctured marks in the skin-vebs of chickens' wings and then filled with indelible ink. Each poultry-raiser has his own "brand," which is registered, and entered in identification books distributed to law-enforcement agencies.

Many Changes Brought About In Canada Through Motor Car Development

Canada's highways and motor cars present a striking illustration of changes brought about by progress and invention.

In the early days of settlement, roads were auxiliary to water routes as avenues of transportation. They were used during the summer season when portages were necessary to avoid obstacles to river and lake travel, and during the winter when ice prevented navigation. The growth of population and the demand for means of communication between settlement points soon made necessary the introduction of overland routes and road construction in Canada got under way in the pioneer stages of the development of the country. Exclusive of the streets in cities, towns and incorporated villages, the total mileage of surfaced roads in Canada at the end of 1934 was 59,642, over half of which was in Ontario. The mileage of unimproved and improved earth roads was 316,627 miles, making a total of 409,269 miles of rural roads in Canada.

The automobile has played a most important part in Canada's road history, especially during the last twenty years in which the motor car has come to rank as a necessity of life to a large proportion of the population. The motor car made its debut in Ontario in 1904, when 535 vehicles were registered, and from that meagre number registrations in the Dominion as a whole grew by leaps and bounds until they reached the peak figure of 1,232,489 in 1930. The next three years showed a slight decline, but in 1934 the automobile again gained ground with registrations totalling 1,129,532 vehicles, a gain of 46.5 per cent.

Canada has a wealth of highways and motor cars, and the extent to which the Canadian people now enjoy the educational and recreational values of travel reflect the new and higher standards of living which progress and invention have placed practically within reach of all.

Made Unlucky Catch

Torpedo Very Nearly Brought Disaster To Fishing Boat

A torpedo weighing several hundred pounds, entangled in the net of the Hamburg fishing cutter Frieda, nearly brought disaster to ship, crew and cargo. The vessel put into Schulau Harbor near Hamburg with its deck almost buried under its nets and destroyed by fire. The skipper, Captain Jones, explained that the unlucky catch was made of Heligoland, and when the head of the torpedo was hauled on deck for some unknown reason it burst into fierce flames. The deck caught fire and even the glass of the wheelhouse melted. The wheelhouse, the mast and rigging were all destroyed. The terrific heat made it impossible to fight the flames at first, but the crew later made desperate efforts to keep the flames down, fearing that the oil tank would explode. Fortunately, the fire was extinguished before the engines were affected. The crew escaped injury.

China Has Ignorance Tax

People Who Cannot Read Or Write Must Pay

An ignorance tax is the latest form of taxation. After April 30, 1936, anyone on the city streets who cannot explain a simple lesson in the standard Chinese primer to any policeman who questions him will have to pay a tax of only copper coins. The "ignorant people's tax," which is the backbone of the drive against illiteracy. More than half the citizens of Hankow can neither read nor write, and the government has decided something must be done about it.

Mrs. Weber has driven the same automobile five times across the continent and, about five years ago, drove it on a tour of European countries. She says it is still going strong.

The Best Tank Heater

Wood-Burning Fireplace Under Galvanized-Iron Tank

After trying many ways of tempering drinking water for cattle and horses, the superintendent of the Beaveridge Substation has decided that, for any situation where the fire hazard does not forbid it, the best system is a wood-burning fireplace under a galvanized-iron tank. The fireplace may be made of cement-concrete walls long enough and wide enough to support the metal tank in which the water is to be warmed. It is convenient to have the fireplace about twenty inches deep and to have a hinged iron door at the south or west end of it, with a four-foot brick chimney at the opposite end. The tank is stuck a stove-pipe length in this chimney to increase the draft. It will invalidate the fire insurance on any building situated within 60 feet unless the fact is reported to the insurance company and a much higher premium paid. Many companies decline to accept insurance where metal chimney flue is used. The insurance agent raised no demur when the writer proposed a concrete fireplace with a brick chimney but warned against increasing the height by using a single length of stove pipe.

Flush with the top face of the wall, a few cross bars of iron may be embedded to support the bottom of the tank. It is a good idea to have a sheet or two of old iron underneath the metal tank to protect its bottom, and especially its seams, from the direct blaze of the fire beneath.

Draft may be improved and heat economized by banking with earth, except at the fireplace door, and along the side walls where the animals are to drink. Some protection may be provided even there.

Old fence posts, old poles or lumber, knotty wood or snow shed grubbed from the breaking make cheap fuel for such a fireplace and usually one or two fires a day will suffice.

Old Test Was Accurate

Grandma Knew How To Tell When Linen Was New

Grandma knew! When she wet her index finger, thrust it into a fabric, and peered anxiously at the result, she wasn't just being persnickety. She was utilizing what is still—even in this age of complex testing devices—one of the most effective ways for determining whether material is cotton or linen.

The finger test is effective, J. A. "Fay" chief of the U. S. textile company's laboratory in the merchandise mart at Chicago, explained, because linen absorbs water more rapidly than cotton. Thus when water running on a mixture—cotton threads placed one way, linen crosswise—it forms a oblong spot instead of the circular one characteristic of pure linens.

In all cotton the spot will be circular, too, but the water will remain on the surface a long time before being absorbed.

United States Butter

Government Official Does Not Expect That There Will Be Much Need For Importation

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace predicted there would be little importation of butter by the United States in the next year, says a despatch from Washington.

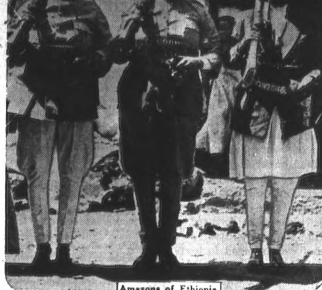

"I'm speaking on a percentage basis, of course," Wallace said. "You can talk about so many thousands of pounds coming in and make it sound important, but as a percentage of the total it won't be important."

The statement was his answer to a press conference inquiry as to whether he believed an increased tariff on butter, such as had been suggested by a New York group, would be justified.

Plan Has Proved Success

That the experiment of the Canadian railways in the introduction of their pickup and delivery freight service has proved to be an unqualified success, this year's summer months shipments alone increasing more than eight million pounds per month, over the same period of last year, was stated at the annual meeting of Canadian National Railway Agents' Association.

A movement has been started to introduce Irish stew in Irish Free State hotels.

Rusted Wheat

Grain Board's Report Show 17 Per Cent. Graded As Rusted

Some indication of the damage caused by rust to western wheat is given in the report of the statistics branch of the board of grain commissioners on the movement of western Canadian grain for September. Approximately 17 per cent. is graded as "rusted." Improvement in wheat of this sort is foreboding. The report followed.

The export movement of Canadian grain to overseas destinations has been slow indeed during the first two months of the crop year. There are, however, abundant indications of a substantial improvement developing.

Now that the movement from country points is in full swing, a better idea of the effect upon this year's crop of rust and unfavorable climatic conditions is obtainable. Using the inspection returns for the first nine days of October as a basis of calculation, 17 per cent. of cars of hard wheat, graded into the "special" (rusted) wheat grades and feed, 14 per cent. graded number 3 and 4 and 48 per cent. 5 and 6 and the free. The heavy increase in the proportion of light-weight grain is reflected in the lower average weight per carload unloaded at the terminals. 1,474 bushels in September as against with 1,516 bushels a year ago.

Winnipeg Building Program

New Hotel, Theatre And Fifteen Stores Are Proposed

Initial plans to give Winnipeg a new 12-story hotel, a theatre, 15 stores and a bus terminal on a triangular piece of property in the heart of the business district were laid before the civic public improvements committee.

Calling for a total expenditure of $1,500,000, the scheme would be financed partly by United States capital and promoted by a group of Winnipeg business men. H. Moore, spokesman for the Winnipeg group, said it was "not a fly-by-night venture" and $150,000 had already been spent on drawing the plans and preliminary study.

The SNAPSHOT GALLERY

SHADOW SHOOTING

Experiment a Little with Shadow Effects. You'll enjoy it.

Did you ever map shadow pictures? If you haven't, you should. It's a lot of fun and failed to get some grotesque but fascinating pictures to add interest to your snapshot collection.

Shadow pictures are easy to make. The main requisite is a good strong sun in the late afternoon or early morning. The picture is taken fifteen or twenty minutes before the sun starts gradually to appear below the horizon. The picture, for your light is usually stronger at this time and casts deeper and sharper shadows.

The two pictures above are only a couple of examples of the unusual pictures to be taken with the shadow effect. The picture to the right was the result of an artist amateur's "nose for pictures." He started down the steps of the elevated train platform—with his camera in his hand—and saw "there is a picture," so hurriedly set the diaphragm at f.11 and shutter speed at 1/250 of a second and snap—he had a fine shadow picture. As the man at the bottom of the steps was walking away from the camera a shadow effect of 1/25 of a second was fast enough to stop action and still give the proper exposure.

Obviously the picture to the left was posed but it shows further possibilities for taking unusual shadow pictures. An ideal place for taking shadow pictures is on light colored ground; the cement sidewalk, the street or better yet on leaves where the light accentuates the dark body and outline of the shadow. You can also get unusual shadow pictures by standing so that your shadow is cast on the side of a building or a house.

Here's one thing to remember. If you take pictures with the shadow cast on a light colored surface the exposure should be on light colored ground; the cement sidewalk, the street or better yet on leaves where the light accentuates the dark body and outline of the shadow. You can also get unusual shadow pictures by standing so that your shadow is cast on the side of a building or a house.

Experts Of League Give Advice On How To Cure Crisis In World Trade

Geological Survey Work

Large Areas In West Are Found Favorable To Prospecting

Large areas of territory favorable to prospecting have been brought to light as a result of this season's geological survey work which sent 188 parties to the field in 65 provinces financed by $1,000,000 provided under the supplementary public works act.

The surveys found territory suitable to prospecting for gold and at least one promising silver area. Those geologists who have already returned from the field are busy preparing their reports which will be made available to prospectors next year.

Surveys in one area of the northwest territories revealed about 2,900 square miles of good prospecting ground for precious metal deposits and one occurrence showing free gold was staked by prospectors in the province of one of the government parties.

One of the Manitoba projects reported it had mapped 200 square miles of favorable gold prospecting ground. Some prospecting areas were found in Northern Saskatchewan, while a British Columbia party found that the best of the territory gold-bearing gravels overlooked in the early placer mining days when the district yielded rich rewards.

In an area west of Lake Superior copper-nickel mineralization of the Sudbury type was found. Sporadic outcroppings, not yet proved of commercial significance, occur over a distance of 14 miles. Three hundred square miles in the same district were found favorable to occurrence of silver.

May Not Sign Contracts

Kansas Farmers Not Sure Wheat Production Should Be Restricted

Whether new wheat control contracts will be signed by Kansas farmers under the United States Agricultural Adjustment Act apparently rested largely in the hands of the war goods hovering over the old world. The Indo-Burman war and the tense European situation were being watched closely by the farmers. The fact the United States already is importing Canadian wheat due to reduced domestic supply led to speculation whether the planters of the vast grain belt would consent to follow a new curtailment program. A.A.A. sign-up success would keep fully 600,000 acres in Kansas out of production in an area that normally yield 6,000,000 to 10,000,000 bushels annually.

Limitation Of Gas Sale

Opposition To System Of Quotas Heard In Alberta

Definite opposing a system of quotas or any limitation of the sale of natural gas in Alberta, H. R. Miller, K.C., president of the Western Petroleum Producers' Association, said in a brief to Sir Montague Harlow, in the investigation into Alberta's oil industry.

Limitation of sales would be impracticable, unfair and discriminatory to the general public as well as to the gas company. Mr. Miller contended. He charged inaccuracy in a claim by coal dealers that if it had not been for gas 350,000 additional tons of coal would have been sold in Edmonton in 1934.

Not Cauted By Quakes

Although ancient Rome had numerous earthquakes, there were never any of outstanding destruction. Some historians contend that many of the Roman palaces and temples said to have been destroyed by barbarians between the fifth and ninth centuries were really shaken down by quakes.

Sermon Was Appropriate

To avoid confusion when lights failed in the Central Baptist church at Saint John, N.B., during a hymn, Rev. Dr. J. H. Knott ministered to the congregation. The subject was the five foolish virgins who neglected to have their lamps filled with oil. The services ended in darkness.

Memorial Candle

Enrico Caruso's memorial candle, which was 16 feet high, five feet in circumference, and weighed one ton, was first lighted, it burned one day each year—all Saints' Day—and will last 15 centuries, it is said.

Ethiopia is exporting more coffee, hides and goatkins than at this time last year.

"Physician, heal thyself!" Well might that mocking cry epitomize the advice of economic experts of the league on how to cure the crisis in world trade, says a report from Geneva.

Everywhere doctors—individuals and governments—are at work. They are employing purely national remedies for the disease. "The doctors have not yet been able to agree," a report of the league's economic committee comments in Annals of Disappointed Reform, "and it has so far been impossible to attack the illness in the proper way—i.e., internationally."

Accordingly, the malady from which the world is now suffering is no longer entirely the crisis but rather the inability of the countries to coordinate their several efforts to emerge from the crisis. This inability to emerge from the crisis is a result of the paralysis of the international circulation, the regular operation of which is indispensable to the welfare of the civilized nations."

The sixteen assembly of the league, representing 54 nations, gave its blessing to free international trade. The secretary of state for the United States sent a telegram of approval. Recovery of trade, the assembly resolution held, should be assisted by the conclusion by as many countries as possible of trade agreements having for their object the application of a more liberal economic policy. The resolution held that the economic crisis "which would be more widespread" when based on the principle of the most-favored-nation clause. Agricultural experts are additionally to be consulted with a view to finding a world solution for agricultural depression.

And documents submitted present a revealing picture of a world where doctors went wrong. Two facts emerge. The first is the steady and very substantial reduction in raw material production and industrial activity. The second is the almost total stagnation of international trade.

Canada To Gulf Shelter Belt

125 Miles Of Planting Finished In Six States

A start has been made on the great Canada-to-the-Gulf shelter belt about which so much was said and written a year ago, according to an announcement in the American Tree Digest published by the American Tree Association, Washington, D.C.

Paul H. Roberts, acting director at Lincoln, Neb., says in a report that 125 miles of shelterbelt plantings have been completed in the six states traversed by the zone. An additional 117 acres of shelterbelt plantings on 1,928 farms have been completed. This later planting was made in cooperation with farmers. He charged inaccuracy in a claim by coal dealers that if it had not been for gas 350,000 additional tons of coal would have been sold in Edmonton in 1934.

The wide climatic conditions encountered throughout the shelterbelt zone, make it necessary to grow a variety of trees, and to select varieties of conditions. Each state must plant to meet its own particular needs.

Legend Of Navajo Indians

Mothers-In-Law Are Reincarnated As Bears After Death

Mothers-in-law, says a Navajo Indian legend, are reincarnated as bears after they die. A 200-pound bear became too troublesome, even for a mother-in-law, so Mrs. M. M. grave director of the Mexican springs oil conservation project, said it. Navajo savages barred the doors of their hogans, sang their lullaby, and prayed for the bear's departed spirit. Indians who had touched the bear's carcass were in a hush, a cleansing ceremony by a medicine man, who turned the departed spirit into a pine tree.

AN EMPTY ANNIVERSARY

It is seventeen years, come Monday, November 11th, since the Great War ended. Seventeen years is not a long period of time but already the horrors of that great holocaust have softened into memories.

The "war that was to end wars" ended nothing except several million lives. It put into temporary eclipse the ambitions of Germany to be the greatest power in the world. To-day Germany is re-building to regain its lost ground and to move on to greater ambitions.

In spite of the myriads of preachers against war that menace still asserts itself. At present one can forecast future wars with as complete assurance as the prophecies of the coming of spring once again.

The next war between great world powers will be an event terrible to behold. The harnessing of science to the chariot of destruction is still incalculable. In the Great War science was only liping the alphabet of destruction. The full effect of progress in the blasting out of human lives by gases and engines of death will be seen in all its gory habilitations when next great nations clash on the battlefield.

Poppies grew on Flanders battlefields. When Mars again reaches ascendancy the sun may pour its sickly glare on war torn earth on which all forms of life may be extinct. Humanity may have discovered an effective form of organized suicide.

THE THIRTY HOUR WEEK

There is a strong and persistent movement under way for the introduction of the thirty hour week. It is claimed that mechanization has taken peoples' work away and that, in order that jobs may be provided for all, a shorter week is necessary.

Maybe that is a fact. But a thirty hour week provision which leaves out agriculture would be unjust and prejudicial to the people who make their living off the land. The agricultural class would find itself confronted with higher prices for all the commodities they require to purchase.

What the farmer needs is not shorter hours for everybody else. That is what makes him work longer hours in order to keep up with the procession. He needs someone to advocate reasonably equal hours of labor for all classes of people in order that he may have a break.

THE ELEMENTS OF SUCCESS

There appears to be a good demand for irrigated land in the Eastern Irrigation block. At the price asked for this land we will not be surprised if there is not an overwhelming rush on the part of purchasers before many years go by. This prophecy is predicated on the likelihood that times will improve and that careful and far-sighted management will be preserved.

It is just possible that, due to proximity, farmers on this project are not properly impressed with the possibilities of the whole project. But so far as we can ascertain, we know of no irrigated and of reasonably fertile soil selling at anywhere near the bargain prices at which this land is offered.

There are sections of the Fraser Valley in British Columbia in which land is selling even these days at from $300 to $500 an acre. We realize, of course, that the Fraser Valley land must be well-improved to bring such prices, the region has an equable climate, there is a big market in the huge city of Vancouver and prices are consequently higher; also that the land will produce fodders, and particularly grasses, more luxuriantly.

But granting all this, there is not the difference of fifty times in greater price for Fraser Valley land over the land in the Eastern Irrigation District. Dairying is the main occupation of farmers in the Fraser Valley and lessened production and lower priced markets here offset by higher production costs and taxes there. Some of the Fraser Valley farm land pays five dollars an acre taxes each year!

Scour North America and we challenge any one to show any region where equally as productive land is available for even three or four times the price!

This Eastern Irrigation District now has every element for success with the possible exception of confidence among the farmers in their own ability to do business in a progressive, but careful, manner. Upon those farmers with the essence of business ability within themselves, depends the success or otherwise of this promising venture.

IT'S THE POINT OF VIEW

We read in the news of the priceless nitwit down in Oklahoma who, to win a village championship, guzzled down 67 10-ounce glasses of water in half an hour.

Sixty-seven glasses of water represent something more than four imperial gallons.

In the charming old days when they used to inflict pain on suspected criminals in order to force a confession from them, the "water question" was a favorite mode of torture.

In this procedure, the victim was stretched on his back, a funnel was inserted in his throat. And then while his nose was held firmly, quart after quart of water was poured down his unwilling throat.

Four or five quarts, so the records say, were usually enough to make the toughest laddie confess anything from murder to mayhem.

But here we have a chap in Oklahoma sopping up four times that quantity for sheer pleasure and glory of it.

Does this mean that this age is harder and more enduring than those which preceded it?

Not at all.
It's all in the point of view.
Who, for instance, would drink beer if it was medicine?—Vancouver Sun.

WHY HE WENT TO PONOKA

A visitor to a hospital for nervously afflicted persons met one of the patients while strolling through the treed grounds. In addressing the patient the visitor remarked: "Well, how did you get here?"

Replying, the patient, without pause, said: "Well, sir, you see I married a widow with a grown-up daughter, and then my father married my wife's daughter; that made my wife the mother-in-law of her father-in-law, and my father became my step-son. Then my step-mother, the daughter of my wife, had a son, and that boy of course was my brother because he was my father's son; but he also was my wife's step-son, and therefore, her grandson, and that made me the grandfather of my step-brother. Then my wife had a son, so my mother-in-law, the step-sister of my son, is also his grandmother, because his step sister is his wife. I am the brother of my own son who is also the son of my step-grandmother. I am my mother's brother-in-law, my wife is her own child's aunt, my son is my father's nephew and I am my own grandfather. And that's one reason I am here, sir."

THE PEOPLE

"The people is a beast of muddier brain than knows not its own force, and therefore stands

Loaded with wood and stone; the powerless hands

Of a mere child guide it with bit and rein. One kick would be enough to break the chain;

But the beast fears, and what the child demands

It does; nor its own terror understands. Confused and stupefied by bugbears vain. Most wonderful! with its own hand it ties and gags itself—gives itself death and war For fence doled out by kings from its own store.

Its own are things between earth and heaven;

But this it knows not; and if one arise To tell the truth, it kills him unforgiven."

—Tommaso Campanella (translated by John Addington Symonds)

The holding of sweepstakes in aid of the Kootenay Lake general hospital at Nelson has been prohibited by the attorney-general's department at Victoria. The last draw was held in the early part of this month, and subscribers were duly notified that it would be the last. During the time the sweepstakes were being held, the hospital received help to the amount of $23,000, which, as the statement aptly says, "kept the key on the inside of the door." It proved a big help to the hospital and afforded the people an opportunity of giving vent to their sporting urge at little expense.—Ex.

Ten Minutes with the Scotch Philosopher

Over in old Ethiopia the natives entertain the curious belief that if they sell milk their cows will die.

If we ceased to peddle the products of our kicking kine we'd perish of starvation.

So far as the average man can see, the banning of liquor advertisements from the press will have this effect: The seventy-five thousand dollars spent annually in this manner within the province will remain in the pockets of the brewers and distillers, thus adding to the great wealth they already possess, while the proprietors of country newspapers, who are frequently up against it, will be rendered that much poorer.

It so happened that many weeklies supported Mr. Abernethy in his crusade, and the owners thereof are doubtless lamenting over the peculiar nature of the reward. However, we are hopeful that the press delegation will receive a sympathetic hearing from the provincial premier and his associates, and the matter definitely suspended.

After all is said and done, the advertising of liquor does not do the advertiser inconsiderable; it merely permits the honest manufacturer to extol the merits of their wares and induce individuals to change brands.

By the way, can anyone inform the writer why the dedicated insist on adorning men's work trousers (commonly known as pants) with cuffs. The danged things fill up daily with dust, whine or snow, and finally cause poor guys to perform acrobatic stunts with a bucket of water in each hand, thereby endangering the safety of that remarkable thing in the makeup of man known as the funny bone.

A dispatch from Jerusalem, dated October 26, stated that the Arabs of the Holy Land had gone on strike. Surely this ought to convince many skeptics that the desert warriors are now fully civilized along western lines.

The cosmopolitan nature of the people is fully revealed by the publication of the names and nationalities of the members of Mr. King's cabinet. Naturally, native-born form a large majority, many of these being of French extraction, but three other countries, namely, England, Scotland and the United States, are represented with one each.

It is nothing new for old country Britishers to occupy high places in the political life of the nation, but in view of the many fine citizens the great republic has given us, the selection of one of ours seems very appropriate indeed.

As many readers of the daily papers have probably noticed, a considerable number of press dispatches dealing with the Ethiopian situation came by way of Port Said. Located on the Mediterranean end of the Suez canal, this godforsaken looking dump is known to seafaring men as world travelers as "the most wicked place on earth." Here one may look on human depravity at its lowest level. Vice walks abroad, naked and unashamed, as if it were the solest of virtues, while the numerous low-down dives are haunted by oodles of people from the edge of the earth over-planing and plotting evil deeds.

The heat is intense and, watted by the light noonday breeze from land and sea, the stifling odors toss to and fro, causing new arrivals to wonder where the dead dogs and camels are located.

Away to the south and not very far from the place where the waters of the Red Sea and Indian Ocean meet, stands Aden, the peculiar appearance of which caused one of Mr. Kilgore's heroes to exclaim: "Hold a cloud upon the beam, An' 'tuned above the sea appears Old Aden, like a barack out That no one's lit for years an' years."

Around it 's also written a musical composition known as "The Barren Rocks of Aden"—a rattling good tune and very familiar to many Scots who have toted rifles for the purpose of slaying enemies of king and country, such hazardous occupation being rewarded by the magnificent sum of 24 brown centimes each day.

Now well tell you in the strictest confidence why so many children of Fionnie Scotland follow the bagpipes and drums. It's a sort of national secret, so keep it under your hats. When a bullet gets them in a vital spot, it costs nothing for funeral expenses.

'INTERMISSION'

In the "South-West Corner" of the Western Farmer, arrie Turner gives a slightly different angle on the Italian situation.

It was too hot to fight, so Mussolini and Hiale Selassie toddled off to the club house to have a drink. "It seems to me you're putting off a little weight, Hiale," remarked Mussolini, as he waded off his stool and sank back into an easy chair. The dark-skinned monarch smoothed out the folds of his stomach with more pride than concern, ordered a water-melon and a g-a-tiz.

"I don't know what you wanted to start this fight for!" remarked Selassie. "The radio from New York today says that the bananas are rotting on the puscherts; your boys should be getting back to work again."

Mussolini got up to make a speech but remembered that his audience consisted of two lizards, a peacock and six monkeys, in addition to the Conquering Lion of Judah, so he sat down again.

"The trouble with you, Hiale," he said, "is that you ain't civilized. I came down here to smear a little culture over your constitutions and I'm going to do it if I have to pump a parcel of machine gun bullets through every one of your thick-skulled skulls. Why don't they stop putting fertilizer in the wells and enticing scorpions to hometeat all the belpets my fellows are about to cure?"

"Perhaps they didn't want you here," guessed His Majesty, with shrewd perception.

"We bring them the culture of the ages," declared Benito.

"I never thought of that when you let loose that poison gas the day before yesterday," replied Selassie.

"Look here, Mussolini, we're civilized here; honest, we are. I was more or less inclined to agree with you until the American papers arrived this morning, now I'm convinced that your proper point of contact with the barbaric races is not in Ethiopia but in the United States."

"Oh, I know there's quite a bit of desultory murder and their marriage law are somewhat nauseating to a gentleman brought up in a country where monogamy is still customary in the more sparsely settled spots, but, on the whole, they're pretty well up on the scale of civilization. They live in houses and, even though they permit the slaughter of thirty thousand people each year by licensed motorists, a lot of them listen to religious services over the radio every Sunday night if there is no amateur concert on at the time."

"I wasn't thinking of these things particularly," said His Majesty, "but of something more in your line of fighting. Do you know that ninety thousand Americans paid a million dollars to see a negro and a German Holbreck pound each other for twelve minutes? It's what they call a prize fight. They don't even hurt each other. My men can go out this evening and stick spears into twenty or so of your men and they don't get a thing for it; they do it for the fun of it, and I hope they have a lot of amusement tonight. Just think: here you are down here at rooming expense, putting on a far better fight than the Louis-laur war and you don't even get the support of the sport writers. While over in New York — you are just wasting your time here. If those crazy Americans pay a million dollars to see a fellow hit another a couple of times in the face they would certainly pay billions to see you massacre a couple of hundred Abyssinians. To tell you the truth, I have a hank here I am not very sure of and I could let you have them cheap."

"It what you tell me is true," said Mussolini, "there must be a field there for my brand of culture. They

Use Strike Weapon

Farm strikes marked the depression, an unusual feature. Previous depressions saw farmers hold protest meetings and resolve against conditions, but never before have the agrarians chosen labor's weapon to enforce demands.

Right now a strike of dairy farmers is in progress in the Chicago milk shed. Farmers are getting 2.34 cents a quart for their choicest milk delivered in bottles. The public pays 10 cents. Farmers before have the average of 3.1-2 cents a quart for the product including the best and lowest grades. Distributors say they have to cut milk wagon drivers' wages from $40 a week if they pay more to farmers. Milk drivers say $40 a week is too low and won't take a cut. The strike in three weeks' old and physical conflict, overturned milk tanks, etc., mark its progress.

Value Grain Crops Highest Since 1930

United States farmers will harvest in the neighborhood of two billion dollars in grain crops this year, a conclusion by market experts disclosed recently. It will be the biggest dollars and cents harvest since 1930.

Experts computed the probable value of this year's grain estimates by the price of the December future of the grains on the Chicago board of trade. Estimated handling charges of 2.14 cents per bushel were deducted from the quotations on the December contract. The total estimated income from wheat, corn, oats, rye and barley was $2,180,000,000.

Move Scottish Castle

EDINBURGH.—Thirteenth century Loch Doon Castle on the Ayrshire border is being moved stone by stone from its island site to the mainland, away from the waters of the loch which are being raised in connection with the Galloway power scheme.

The British Office of Works has undertaken the work of preservation and the stones are being carefully numbered as the castle is taken down. This is said to be the largest attempt of this kind of rebuilding in Britain.

The castle is listed among the Ancient Monuments and has long been of interest to antiquaries. Some of the walls are eight feet thick and the heavy stones, many of which are very large, are only a facing. The workers are to be guided in their rebuilding by photography.

Look at it This Way!

A retail store regards itself as being a public servant. Therefore, it is wholly fitting that it should try to be the best and most eager servant possible. A retail store which hides itself from those whom it wants to employ it becomes under-employed, and so its sales decline.

The public inclines in large numbers toward those stores which seek its attention and custom. It takes the advertising store at its own valuation. It likes to do business with those who manifest eagerness to serve it. It likes to buy at those stores which have to renew their stocks frequently.

Advertising is just communicating news and information about one's store and service. It is just a form of talking. It is those who talk who are listened to. Silent stores lose out to stores which carry on conversations—in the form of newspaper advertisements—with those whose custom they want.

Any retailer who wants to get more customers—for the replacement of customers who become lost to him and for the expansion of his business—can surely get them by making his store important in their eyes, and by putting in his advertisements the kind of information which will help buyers come to decisions.

Our newspaper's advertising department is ever willing to help retailers prepare the right kind of advertisements—free assistance of course.

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches, or the pains of rheumatism, neuralgia or any other ailment, ask your doctor what he thinks about it—in comparison with "Aspirin".

We say this because, before the discovery of "Aspirin", most so-called "pain" remedies were advertised by physicians as being bad for the stomach, or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of "Aspirin" largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken "Aspirin" have found it without ill effects, and have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember, then, "Aspirin" is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains... and safe for the average person to take regularly.

SYNOPSIS

Nancy Nelson is a sub-bell, a girl, irresponsible girl of nineteen, with no care beyond the choice of her costume, or her coming-out party, suddenly, in the market crash, her indulgent father loses all his hat, and the family is faced with the necessity of a simpler method of living. At this juncture a letter is received from an eccentric relative in Colorado who offers the girl a home, what seems to be impossible condition.

After much consideration Cousin Columbine's offer is accepted, and Nancy and Jack arrive at Pine Ridge. Nancy set out one afternoon to climb to the top of a hill so as to obtain a view of the surrounding landscape and miss the path Aurora Tubbs had told her to follow. A truck comes along the road, driven by Matt Adams, and she asks him which way to go. They ascend the hill, look around, and then go on to Cousin Columbine's.

Aunt tells Nancy that her brother Luke has broken his leg, and that Jack Nelson has been hired to help out while Luke's leg gets better. With Jack away, Nancy finds that she is lonesome, and having no books to read, the idea of starting a public library at Pine Ridge seems a good one, and Nancy writes home to get her parents to send all the books they could spare and all they could induce others to let them have.

Nancy's parents and friends gave their liberal support to her request for books, and a sizeable box arrived in due course. Father Adam painted a sign for the library, and the Adams boys worked on the shelves for the books and decorations to make the room look presentable.

Jack Nelson, Matthew Adams, and Nancy go to the prairie home of Matt's uncle for the ride, and after lunch and Jack leaves for the city. They are caught in a blizzard. Blinded by the swirling snow they collide with a bus full of school children, which was stalled across the road with its wheels stuck in a snow-drift. The children's car being wrecked, Jack and Nancy stay with the children and do all they can to help.

He succeeds in finding help, and the party of children and Nancy are all saved. As a result of the rescue, Nancy's feet are badly frozen, and Jack is seriously ill with pneumonia, but both of them recover.

CHAPTER XXI.

The days that followed eluded new lines in Columbine Nelson's face, for only a few hours after her second telegram to Massachusetts Jack looked an unexpected turn for the worse.

"Bless I send for his people!" she questioned, when after a time that seemed a grave-eyed doctor emerged from the boy's room.

"I should wait," he answered. "If Jack were my own son, Miss Nelson, and I so far away, I should say the same. You see, if the end comes, it will be soon; and since his parents could not reach here in time to see him, isn't it kinder, and wiser too, not to harrow them with the knowledge of how dark the prospects look just now? If he lives through the night the boy will probably recover. He's putting up a magnificent fight, and every nurse and doctor in the place is fighting with him—in spirit, anyway. I don't say that his condition isn't desperate; but somehow I've the conviction that he'll make the grade."

Miss Columbine did not leave the hospital that night; nor did she close her eyes until the next morning, when she appeared as usual. She said that Jack seemed to have turned the corner, and his physician felt the worst was over. Not until then did the old lady cry a little, and the doctor ordered a powder that brought sleep. It was almost noon when she heard a rap upon her door, and Matthew Adams entered the room.

"Did I wake you, Miss Columbine?"

"No, I was only snoozing. How's everything now, Matt?"

"The young man sat down on the bed and grinned at me."

"Jack's sleeping—naturally. Nancy isn't suffering this morning; and it looks as if the kids were coming through without a single amputation."

"That Osgood boy's been telling me what happened. I tell you, Miss Columbine, I take off my hat to Jack and Nancy—and to some of those brave youngsters too."

"I guess the papers didn't exaggerate this time," she observed.

"You're right, but just the same, I miss my guess if it's not some shock to those young relatives of yours when they read the story! How do you suppose it feels, Miss Columbine, to have the country regarded as her?"

"Well, it's a pretty bit either of 'em," responded the old lady. "You've got the Nelson common sense. It's I who've likely to be puffed up, Matthew. The country's ours, must have been taken for a boy to start out in the time of such a storm, especially when the driver had disappeared. And Nancy? A girl brought up as she's been—everything soft and easy so far—to do what she did—Well, all I can say is that my pioneer mother would have been proud of her!"

Matt noted with pleasure that Miss Columbine spoke with her accustomed briskness.

"You must go home to-day, Matthew," she said later. "It's been a comfort knowing you were here; but your father needs you, and I'll not be asked any longer."

The young man smiled.

"I've had orders per telephone, to stay on duty a day longer. Mother's coming in the truck to take him home and, incidentally, pick out a new car! That's a good thing came out of this blizzard, Miss Columbine, we've practically forced to buy a decent automobile. The old one's done for; and even that can't make up an excuse to put us off. The Adam clan is thrilled at the prospect. We're to have a new car, and the Adams boys are working at the Ford agency this afternoon."

Miss Columbine laughed and said: "Your mother deserves a modern car, if anybody does. Is Mark all right again?"

"If he came whether he was or not. They've had to take turns sitting on the floor to prevent his getting out of bed! All that kept Mark from joining that rescue party was Nancy, who was the fact that Aunt Em had the clock and locked the door when Uncle Tom keeps his. I must run now and get a bite before I meet the family."

After this things went more smoothly, and the messages to Edgemore contained only the best of news.

Thus there came a day some two weeks later when Nancy found herself in the big black without bed again, with General Grant looking down disapprovingly, she thought, on her Chinese coat, and Mark Adam looking quizzical the opposite, as he stood in the doorway.

"Pursuing your fan mail?" he questioned soberly.

Nancy laughed. Her bed was strewn with newspapers and letters, not to mention various telegrams from her admirers. She laid down a cable from Aunt Judy and the Spear twins as she said:

"Come on in and be seated. No, not on the bed, Mark! I feel not seem to belong to me yet, and I've got the feeling that if anybody sits on 'em they'll break off! Where's Matt?"

"He went to read some of those foolish letters. Can you beat that?"

She tossed him a mischievous, but before Mark had time to look at it, Aurora Tubbs puffed up the stairs.

"What'll I have for dinner, Nancy? There's a steak, and cream potatoes, and some hot-house tomatoes that come by express this mornin' from a sincere admirer of Port Collins, whoever he is. Would you like apple pie, or a good baked custard?"

Miss Columbine says to order anything you want. My star! Your beef's a perfect sight. I hope this yours' gets' you better 'n' your day."

Nancy smiled and replied: "I'll choose the pie, Aurora. And could we open a can of your wonderful string beans?"

"Sure we could. Why don't you sit right up to stay to dinner, Mark? You might as well as sit there lookin' hungry."

Mark shook his head, endeavoring to appear grateful.

"You wrong me, Aurora. I'm headed for Colorado Springs soon by my elder brother arrives from home to-day. We're to swap our cars, and I dare say Matt would appreciate that grudging invitation, though if you ask me, he's already enjoyed more than his share of our nation's heritage."

"I think he's gettin' awfully sweet 'n' her," observed the woman, so soberly that Nancy suppressed a smile.

"So, I'll said Mark, and grinned at Nancy.

Aurora moved forward, her brow furrowed with worry.

"I hope to goodness it won't make no trouble in the family, Mark Adam. 'Twould break your mother's heart if anything was to come between you boys. What are you laughin' about now, Marky Nelson? It's no laughin' matter for two brothers to get tussled on the same girl. There was the Elton brothers up to Cripple Creek. They both fell in love with Sarah Peters and—Yes, Miss Columbine (as a warning sound from below), "I know you told me not to talk Nancy to death. I'm comin' now."

"And she leaves us," Mark said tragically as Aurora fled, "in complete ignorance as to the fate of those unfortunate Eltons! I'll look in on Jack this afternoon, Nancy. Want me to take him some of this accumulation?"

At that point Mark forgot to bring them back. I'm saving every one of these absurdities to show my grandchildren. Jack's seen the papers, I suppose."

Mark nodded.

"He says he feels like Lindbergh! The last of those kids goes home to-day, Nancy. It's wonderful how well they all came through."

"Isn't it? I was so awfully afraid for some of them. It makes me shudder just to remember how they suffered. In that Matt honking so cheerily below the window? I find me that compact on the bureau, Mark. I expect I look a sight."

The young man threw her a reproving glance as he obeyed.

"I note the fact that you used no powder or lipstick on my account, Miss Aladdin. Say! Aunt Em sent in a big donation for the library. I left the books with Mary Taylor, but she suggested you might like to look 'em over here."

"I would. I can hardly wait to get back to the library. Juanita says—"

"All ready, feller," called Matthew from below.

Mark went to the stairway and looked down.

"Why don't you join us, brother? Nancy's been beautifying herself just for your benefit. She looks like the Queen of Sheba or Greta Garbo, or some one."

Matthew obeyed, saying as he passed on the threshold: "I was only thinking that two callers might upset the invalid. How you feeling, Nancy?"

"Great! And don't call me an invalid. There's nothing the matter except that my feet feel sort of—well, sort of brittle!"

"Mark Adam," called Miss Columbine, "you come right down. You've been there half an hour. It's Matt's turn now."

"Coming," called Mark; and then to Nancy: "I'll drop in later and let you see how your brother's hat still fits his head, my dear. So long."

As Mark departed, Matt drew a chair nearer the bed.

"I appear to be submerged in letters, telegrams and the daily press," he told her, smiling. "How does it make you feel, Nancy?"

It's awfully nice for every one to say such things about us; but I know, and you know too, Matt, that anybody else would have done exactly what Jack and I did. It just happened to be us—that's all."

"I'm not so sure," said Matthew gravely. "I think you're wonderful, Nancy."

A Lightning Shave

Italian Claims Flash Evaporated Him Of Moustache And Beard

It is certain that Luciano Code, a famous Italian moustache and beard, is just as certain that after a thunderstorm he was clean shaven. He says the lightning shaved him.

His story is: Code, who lives in the village of Fiores di San Pancrazio, Italy, was leaning out of the window watching the lightning flicker across the fields when a sudden flash seemed to hit his nose, and threw him back into the room. When he put his hand to his face he found that his moustache and beard had disappeared.

Otherwise he was uninjured.

Have Efficient System

Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, United States minister to Denmark, was leaving out of the window at an address at Sioux City, Iowa, that farm co-operatives in Denmark were an efficient egg-receiver.

Bicycle With Wings

Short Flight Has Been Achieved By

From Germany comes the news of the first flight ever achieved by man-power alone. Since time immemorial man has been trying to conquer the air in various contraptions propelled by human muscles and the spectators at Frankford-on-Main saw a sort of winged bicycle actually leave the ground in a flight of several hundred yards.

So what? Does this presage a time when we shall tap on our aerial bicycles and sail through space? The inventor says so, but we are inclined to doubt it. Terrestrial bicycles, if you recall, became somewhat less popular with the development of the gasoline engine. It would be great sport to go pedalling through the air, but when one can sit comfortably at the controls and let an engine do the work—well, somehow aerial bicycling seems less attractive. If it came to a choice between flying flyers and flying bicycles, we have a pretty good hunch which the public would choose.

Little Helps For This Week

A bruised red shall He not break. Isaiah 42:3.

All my life I still have found and I'll forget it never. Every sorrow hath its bound. No cross endures forever. All things else but have their day. God's love only lasts for aye.

We have never had more than we can bear. The present hour we are always able to endure. As our day so is our strength. If the trials of many years were gathered into one they would overwhelm us, therefore in pity for our little strength He sends first one and then another, and then removes both before He sends a third heavier perhaps than either, but it is as wisely measured to our strength that the bruised red is never broken. We do not look back at our trials in this successive and continuous view. Each one is sent to us to teach us something, and altogether they have a lesson which is beyond the power of any to teach alone.

Big Bombers Submitted To United States Army Approval

A new Vulture observation bomber, described by experienced aviation men as "the most powerful air weapon ever devised," has completed secret factory tests and will be submitted to the United States army for approval.

Perhaps the most striking development in the progress of modern bombing has been the use of the high speed, fully fledged, in its canopy of shatter-proof glass, which permits unobscured vision and preserves low resistance.

The bomber is equipped with one transverse and four fixed machine guns. Aerial armament can be one 1,100-pound bomb, or 24 bombs of 100 pounds each.

The big ship can carry provisions for ten days, and can be discharged over trenches at 250 miles an hour.

Pilgrims Visit Battlefields

A quarter of a million pilgrims visit the Great War battlefields of France every year, and of these six per cent. are German, twice as many as in 1918. No fewer than 14,700 Germans visited Verdun alone during 1934.

As Late As 1930, English misters caught rain water falling on Ascension Day. The water was bottled and used in each bread leaving to insure "light" bread.
